

Title Understanding the Western World (Shinakht dunya yi gharb)

Author: Hashemifard, Mirahmad Translator: N/A, N/A Illustrator: N/A, N/A

The author Mirahmad Hashemifard is a MD who has received his degree from the University of Tehran and after practicing for 8 years in Iran , has lived for 3 years in Europe and then has immigrated and worked in the US since 1969. In addition to his professional life and practice and writings, he has been a keen observer of the life in the West and a student of western history and religion. This is his second book, in which he shares his unique observations in form of a synthesis of the history of western thought since inception of Christianity to middle ages and renaissance to present day US society. Dr. Hashemifard's book about the west and its history is a book by a scholar but written in such a way that is very accessible for the mainstream reader. The footnotes and extensive bibliography makes this a valuable resource and almost necessary reading for all immigrants who can read Persian.
